

Hi there!

My name is Josh and I would love to work at Strava because I am a long time user and I love the mission of empowering athletes to be their strongest self!

Here are five of my beliefs:

Making something delightful should be default

I believe that 'it works' is not good enough, and that the user experience can be equally as beneficial as the product's end result.

Experience does not make a developer

Some people say that I soak up new things like a sponge. I believe that my passion and energy have accelerated my growth to compensate for the years of experience I lack.

If you want something you gotta bring it

I want to be a part of making a great culture. Two traits I value are being unashamedly myself and empathetic to others. This might look like me including that new Kanye song in a demo, wearing yellow all summer, or jumping in to help when a coworker is in distress.

Hard things are just easy things in succession

What really makes a problem hard is not being able to see the end of it. I have experience embracing the unknowns, iterating until the end is in sight, and moving forward even when my brain wants to remain paralyzed by fear.

All products are a reflection of the team

Ultimately, creating a great product is about aligning great people around a common focus. The above four beliefs are the blocks that I bring to the team.

Let's talk soon if you share similar beliefs!
